

I would like to suggest to the FCC and the NAB that they stay out of satellite broadcasting industry. Right now we are fighting a war for, among other things, the freedom of speech. Then along comes NAB trying to limit just that thru the FCC. I pay for the service I receive and don't appreciate the NAB trying to regulate or tell me on what those services may be. Perhaps the "NAB people's" time and resources would be better spent cleaning up their own segment of the industry before they try to regulate or eliminate competition. Let the marketplace dictate the content of a private (XM Radio) service rather than the envy of the "fall-short" National Association of Broadcasters.
